Welcome to the fall 2013 issue of City Views. With the change of the seasons and the start of the city's new fiscal year on October 1, changes are also underway at City Hall.

The #1 priority for your elected officials has been to reset the city's expense structure as a first step toward achieving a balanced budget. To facilitate that effort, the decision was made to offer a one-time opportunity for early retirement to employees nearing retirement age. Nineteen employees have taken advantage of this early retirement opportunity known as the Deferred Retirement Option Program (DROP). While a few left in December 2012, the majority will be leaving at the end of this year. With them will go many hundreds of years of service to our community – several individuals with over 40 years. We will clearly miss them all. Of the 19 positions, we have determined that 9 must be refilled. With 10 fewer employees, and the 9 new employees earning less than their predecessors, the overall effect will be a substantial reduction in payroll.

The challenge, of course, has been how to manage this reduction in staff without affecting the services to which Clayton residents have grown accustomed. Through the persistent efforts of the City Manager, the city staff and the Board of Aldermen, we believe this can be accomplished with little noticeable change in service levels. We are grateful to those employees who will be taking on additional responsibilities and very proud of their can-do attitude

With the DROP program and the reduction of a host of other expenses, the deficit will be cut in half for the fiscal year starting October 1, 2013. How we cover the remaining deficit will be the subject of a future message.

If you missed the public hearings the Board of Aldermen conducted in August and September to review the proposed 2013-2014 budget, you will find budget details on the city's website at www.claytonmo.gov/budget

DID YOU KNOW that Clayton owns and maintains 100 lane miles? It has been 20 years since the streets were repaved – it's time we revisit that project. More about streets in the next issue of City Views.

2014 Municipal Election

On Tuesday, April 8, 2014, the City of Clayton will hold a municipal election for the offices of Alderman-Ward I, Alderman-Ward II and Alderman-Ward III, each for a three-year term.

Our City's centennial year, 2013, is almost at an end. As we join together to celebrate the centennial of the incorporation of Clayton, your Ward II Aldermen thought it would be interesting to take a look back at the area covered by Ward II in 1913.

The street car line known as the "Clayton 04" operated along a route that is now Wydown Boulevard. Passing into the eastern boundary of Ward II at Big Bend Boulevard (then Pennsylvania Avenue) you would have seen construction of homes in the new subdivisions of Brentmoor Park and Forest Ridge. On the south side of the route, Boland's large Claverach farm (present day Claverach, Moorlands and Forest Court subdivisions) extended south to Clayton Road and west to Hanley Road, offering a wide view of the countryside and distant barns. To the north, the country estate of Robert Carr (present day Carrswold and Wydown Forest subdivisions) would have appeared, with his large home on the hillside. Just after the Carr estate, a small pond existed next to the street car line on the north before the "04" crossed Hanley Road and passed through the St. Louis Country Club grounds (now Polo) into the village of Clayton.

It is fascinating to look back at our City 100 years ago, and we can feel proud of where we are today. It is even more exciting to look to the future! Our year of celebrating the centennial will culminate in an event that helps us do all of these things! The Party of the Century! We can all enjoy a look at our past as well as seeing some of the plans for the future. Don't miss it - we will see you there!

Stay Informed

Clayton Connection/Clayton Business Connection

To keep its business and residential citizens informed, the city publishes the email update, Clayton Connection, each Friday. In response to a recent request from business owners, Clayton's Business Connection will become part of the Clayton Connection messages. With this new outreach, the city hopes to, not only keep businesses informed, but also facilitate exchanges with business owners, and encourage them to provide input about doing business in Clayton.

Anyone interested in receiving the Clayton Connection updates should go to www.claytonmo.gov/ecommunications to sign up.

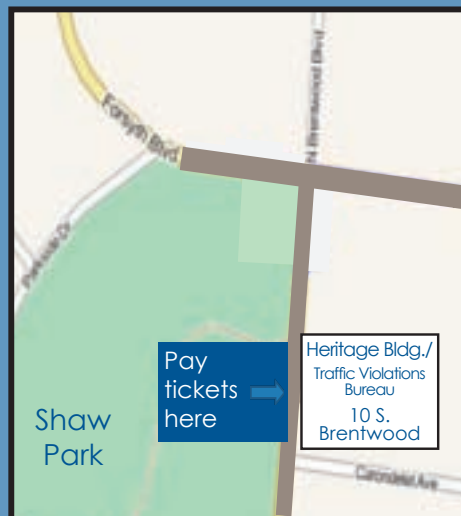

New Location

for matters related to traffic violations, parking and municipal court

In January, the Clayton Police Department moved to its new home in the Heritage Building at 10 S. Brentwood. The city's Traffic Violations Bureau also moved from City Hall at 10 N. Bemiston to the 10 S. Brentwood location.

Now all business related to traffic violations, parking and municipal court will be handled at the new location. Clayton residents are also able to obtain residential parking permits there.

The Traffic Violations office is open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Residential Property Maintenance

help preserve the quality of our fine neighborhoods

Well-maintained homes are essential components of a healthy community. Preserving our housing stock, maintaining property values, and ensuring our properties are healthy and safe benefits not only individual property owners and tenants, but also the community at large.

Each year, the city receives hundreds of calls from citizens with property maintenance concerns. In response to these inquiries, the Planning and Development Services Department has prepared a brochure that highlights some of the major provisions of Clayton's Property Maintenance Code. The brochure is designed to help property owners recognize potential violations on their property and take corrective action to preserve property values and the character of their neighborhood.

The brochure is available on the city's website at www.claytonmo.gov/propertymaintenance. Should you require assistance or have a question pertaining to a condition not addressed in the brochure, contact the Planning and Development Services Department at 314.290.8452.

Clayton's Volunteer Gardeners

Clayton's exceptional quality of life is due in no small part to the city's engaged resident. The Public Works crews are particularly grateful to the dedicated, hardworking residents who help manage the landscaped areas in their respective subdivisions. Their support not only contributes to the beautification of Clayton neighborhoods, it assists Public Work crews in keeping the city one of the most well-maintained in the region.

Judy Bolian, Jack & Jake Lewis and Jake Schneider tend this garden in Claverach Park at the northeast corner of Hillvale Drive and Harcourt Drive.

Although Mother Nature will ultimately determine the time for preparing and planting beds, Public Works staff and volunteer gardeners follow a timeline for maintaining annual and perennial landscape beds throughout Clayton. While city crews trim trees, mow, aerate and fertilize islands and common areas on an as-needed basis, volunteer gardeners work with Public Works officials on establishing landscape designs and the types of plants used in those designs.

To learn more about becoming one of Clayton's volunteer gardeners, contact Public Works Superintendent Gary Scheipeter at 314.290.8550 or gscheipeter@claytonmo.gov

In addition to Claverach Park, Clayton's volunteer gardeners help maintain common area gardens in Wydown Forest, the Moorlands, Clayshire, Northmoor, and DeMun/Hi-Pointe subdivisions.

It's the City's Centennial!

Why you should care...

When the City of Clayton incorporated on April 7, 1913, wild dogs were roaming unlit dirt roads. Times have certainly changed! If you would like to read about early stories and learn the fun facts of Clayton's growth, pick up a copy of the newly published centennial book, Clayton, Missouri: An Urban Story.

Throughout 2013, the City of Clayton has been celebrating its 100th anniversary with a wide variety of special activities. This milestone year culminates in a fabulous fall calendar of events that offers something for everyone. For all the details, please visit www.clayton2013.com.

The Clayton Century Foundation has also been busy working as a private 501(c)3 partner to support the City's Master Plan and to help fund priority park enhancements and capital projects. Because of the generosity of resident and business donors, the Foundation has raised funds to bring a number of significant projects to fruition during the Centennial, such as permanent public art, recreational trails, gardens and an inclusion playground in Shaw Park, a first-time dog park and restorative progress for the Civil War-era Hanley House in Hanley Park.

Why is the commitment to these quality of life amenities so important? A fascinating study conducted by Gallup and the John S. and James L. Knight Foundation examined what makes a community a special place. Nearly 43,000 people in 26 communities across the U.S. were interviewed over a period of three years. The 2008 "Soul of the Community" project found that three main qualities attach people to their communities, whether it was in Miami or Macon: Social Offerings, such as entertainment venues and places to meet, Openness (how welcoming a place is) and Area Aesthetics (its physical beauty and green spaces). And, attachment is an important metric because it was also proven to be linked to local economic growth.

Fostering attachment has been a driving motivation for planning the Centennial's festivities. Attachment inspires people to feel positively about the place where they choose to live, work and play. With a spirit of celebration, it is hoped that everyone – residents, workers and visitors – will participate in the City's final events to mark this historic year. After all, a 100th anniversary only happens every 100 years. Together, we will be well positioned to address the challenges of the next century. Please join in!

PERFORMANCE MANAGEMENT AWARD

The City of Clayton was recently awarded a Certificate of Excellence from the International City/County Management Association (ICMA) for its superior performance management efforts. The certificate program assesses the performance management program and encourages analysis of results by comparing to peers, and gauging performance over time. It also encourages accountability and transparency. The award is a testament to the work city staff does to capture and report the data, and efforts by department directors and elected officials to focus on improving service. Clayton is one of only 28 jurisdictions receiving the highest level of recognition from the ICMA Center for Performance Measurement this year.

PLEASE NOTE

- In case of heavy rain, snow or ice, the leaf collection schedule will be modified. Please call Public Works at 314.290.8540 for a revised schedule or view it on the city's website www.claytonmo.gov
- Leaves from islands, parkways and common areas will be picked up as time permits. These areas may be skipped in order to maintain the residential leaf pickup schedule.
- Alley pickup is not available.
- Leaves will be collected from all streets on the scheduled day or the following workday, rain or shine.

- Rather than the first week of October, the 2013 Leaf Collection Schedule will begin on the third week in October.

The city is committed to providing efficient and cost effective services, and appreciates citizens' cooperation with these changes.

Business Highlight

Clayton Fine Art Gallery

Veterinarian Jim Irwin and former international insurance broker Jerry Schmutz, both passionate photographers, have joined forces and opened the Clayton Fine Art Gallery at 21 N. Bemiston. The gallery, formerly in the space occupied by the Gateway Gallery, features a wide array of art ranging from oil paintings, pastels and water colors to acrylics, photography, sketching, sculpture and more. Exhibited artwork will typically change every six weeks.

Nearly 400 art enthusiasts attended the gallery's inaugural exhibition in June featuring Irwin's powerful wildlife photos taken on his recent African safaris. Schmutz's eclectic nature scenes were featured in the exhibit in August and September. Each exhibition highlighted art from both resident and guest artists from throughout the Midwest, many of them nationally renowned.

Gallery hours are Wednesday and Thursday - 11 a.m. to 6 p.m., Friday - noon to 7 p.m., Saturday - 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Sunday - noon to 5 p.m. Visit www.claytonfineartgallery.com for more information.

Parks and Recreation Update

The city recently completed projects in Shaw Park that have resulted in new features and amenities to enhance the park visitors' experience. The new recreation trail adds miles to the pathways in areas of the park that were previously unexplored such as the new native plant garden at the north end of the park. The trail now flows more organically to allow for ADA accessibility. It is slightly narrower which limits vehicle access and improves safety.

Two pieces of public art have been installed along the new trail. One by the late Clayton native Ernest Trova. The other is a commissioned sculpture by James Surls that was installed in Century Garden as part of Clayton's centennial celebration. An outdoor, adult fitness area was constructed to encourage individuals of all abilities to exercise. All park enhancement projects were supported by the Clayton Century Foundation.

Trees and Benches Needed for Shaw Park

Trees are essential to an urban oasis because they provide shade and help to clean the air while reducing erosion and storm water runoff. Benches provide a place for visitors to relax and enjoy the landscaping and the new park features.

Last year's draught claimed many of Shaw Park's long standing trees. Investing now in replacement trees will help re-establish the landscapes that will mature and be enjoyed by generations to come. New benches are needed for areas along the new trails and to replace the old, worn out benches that were removed.

The Enhance Clayton Parks program provides a unique opportunity to honor or remember an individual or organization. Trees and benches purchased become tributes, while the donation goes toward enhancing Clayton's Parks and Recreation system.

To learn more about the program, call Denise at 314.290.8516 or visit www.claytoncenturyfoundation.org > Four Passions > CCF Parks.
